THE EFFECTS OF POISON!

Some Startling Statements-Dangerous Drugs-Worse Than Opium Smoking.

Views of Medical Authorities.

The Washington Post says: For centuries it has been contended that a tough medicine, to be effective, must contain morphia, opium, or some other equally dangerous drug, and to-day nearly every cough medicine in the market has for its base some one of these deadly poisons. In every State of the Union physicians and coroners are constantly reporting innumerable cases of poisoning and death resulting from such compounds. One authority states that these have done more injury than oprum smoking. A purely vegetable and at the same time efficacious cough cure has been considered an impossibility. It is for this reason that eminent medical authorities and public men everywhere, like Dr. James A. Stenart, Health Commissioner of Baltimore, and Dr. Samuel K. Cox, of Washington, have spoken so enthusiastically of the discovery of Red Star Cough Cure, which is absolutely free from poisons or narcotics. Dr. O. Grothe, of the Brooklyn Board of Health, and heads of similar boards in other cities are also among those who have issued official certificates in

Professor John J. Caldwell, M. D., member of the Electro-Therapeutical Society. New York; Medical Society Kings County (Brooklyn); Medical Society Baltimore; for sx surgeon United States Volunteers; author of | November. "Electro-Therapeutics," etc., certifies that a very desirable new departure has been made by the introduction of Red Star Cough Care; that in addition to the rare quality of being entirely vegetable and harmless, he finds it to be an ingenius compound, pleasant to take and of remarkable efficacy.

"We Have Used It."

To the Public:

From personal experience, as well as from observation of its marked efficacy in other cases that have come under our notice, we cheerfully recommend RED STAR COUGH CURE as a safe and reliable family medicine.

Combining the power to relieve and cure promptly with the rare quality of being entirely free from opiates, poisons and narcotics, as demonstrated by the analyses of recognized medical authorities, it may justly be termed a valuable discovery.

Over fifty physicians of Baltimore, including those of leading hospitals, charitable institutions, colleges and schools, have voluntarily indorsed Red Star Cough Cure, not only as the best thing of the kind ever discovered, but as being entirely free from the barmful features of other cough mixtures. Every one will find it a safe, sure cure. It is entirely free from opiates, narcotics, emetics and poisons. It leaves no bad effects. It does not derange the system. It is pure, plessant, prompt. Webster's Bill Protecting Trout. Boston Journal.

It is not generally known that Daniel Webster was once a member of the Legislature of Massachusetts. The fact is not mentioned by many of his biographers. He was chosen by the people of Boston, and was one of the framers of the first city charter of Boston. In one of his speeches, delivered "it happily supplants the objectionable and | in New York, Mr. Webster said: "It has so happened that all the public services which I have rendered in the world in my day and generation have been connected with the General Government. I think I ought to make an exception. I was ten days a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, and I turn my thoughts to the search of some good object in which I could be useful in that position, and, after much reflection, I introduced a bill which, with the general consent of both Houses of the Massachussettes Legislature, passed into a law, and is now a law of the State, which enacts that no man in the State shall catch trout in any other manner than with the ordinary hook and line."

Senator Hoar's Concett. [Washington Letter.]

It is a conceit of George Frisbie Hoar, of Massachusetts, that he would be taken for a twin brother of Horace Greeley. There are some points of resemblance of facial development, and Mr. Hoar has intensified the likeness by assiduously cultivating the benign expression which constantly mantled the countenance of old Horace. But there is a sinister gleam in the eye of the Massachusetts statesman which affords a painful contrast to the unsuspecting and benevolent glance of Greeley. Nevertheless, there is enough similitude to afford much comfort to Mr. Hoar. Talking on this subject the other day, one of his constituents said: "If you want Hoar to do you a favor tell him he looks like Horace Greeley. That's about the only way you can influence him. Why, he would wear short trousers, boots and an old white hat like Greeley's if his family did not prevent him. Hoar is a very pious man, but dang my buttons if I haven't heard him swear like a trooper, and he did it just because Horace Greeley did it."

Mrs. McElroy's Bon Mot.

The Boston Transcript tells the following cook story of the late mistress of the White House: At her reception two weeks ago. among others who were presented to her by Marshal McMichael, the master of ceremonies, was Dr. Mary Walker. This nondescript personage, wearing tight trousers and a little coat, and carrying a cane, presented a most grotesque and rediculous figure, utterly out of keeping with the surroundings. Mrs. McElroy spoke a word or two to her rather unexpected guest; and, so it happened, the next person presented to her was a Miss Mann. To this Mrs. McElroy made the neat remark: "I have just been presented to a woman who would like to be a man. I am now pleased to meet a Mann who is content to remain a woman.

The act of placing a shovelful of coals on the fire must necessarily produce some noise, and is as likely as not to arouse the sleeper when it is most important that the sleep should not be broken; putting little lomps of coal on with the fingers is a way to avoid the disturbance, but not a very pleasant way to the performer. Both of these difficulties can be avoided by the simple plan of having scoopfuls of coal put into ordinary paper bags and placing it on the fire

| Boston Post It is officially stated that the people of the United States consume twice as much beer and twice as much milk as they did ten years ago. The consumption of distilled spirits has also increased but not in the ratio of the increase of population, and the use of wine has sctually decreased. On the other hand the use of coffee has considerable increased. Uniting and transposing we find that the wines and heavy liquors bave been steadily driven back in a decade by the combined forces of beer, coffee and milk, Who says we are not growing in health and temperance?

Bobby's Successful Scheme. [New York Times.]

"Won't you have another piece of pie, Mr. Featherly?" asked Bobby, hospitably. His mother was entertaining a few friends at dinner and the dissert was being discussed. "Thanks, Bobby," Featherly replied, laughingly; "since you are so polite about it, I believe I will take a small piece more." "All right," said Bobby. "Now, ma, remember your promise. You said if it was necessary to cut into the second pie I could have two pieces."

"When we two parted,' after lingering late at the garden gate, I felt that I had taken cold," said Thomas Takeintime, "and next morning I was hoarse indeed. But a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup fixed me up, and there's enough left for next time."
